FAQS

Who may apply for the Certificate in Law?

Anyone with a Bachelor's degree may apply for admission.* A legal background is not required, however, attorneys may apply. (*University of Detroit Mercy undergraduate students in the College of Engineering may take two courses toward the Certificate in Law during their senior year.)

How long will it take to complete the Certificate in Law?

The Certificate in Law requires completion of four seven-week, three-credit courses offered over the duration of one year (three semesters). Students may select to complete the Certificate over the course of two years.

How much time can I expect to devote to course study each week?

Students will spend approximately five hours per week on course work, including reading, homework assignments, knowledge testing, and online discussion groups.

When do classes meet?

All classes are online and students may tailor their schedule as needed. Course materials and assignments will be regularly posted for completion within a specific time-frame.

Is there training in the online format used to teach this course?

Yes. Training on the learning software will be provided free of charge.

What is the cost per course?

Each course is $2,500, to be paid in advance of start date. Four courses are required to earn the Certificate in Law.

Can I take one or two courses, and not pursue the Certificate in Law?

The Introduction to Intellectual Property Law and the Cybersecurity Law courses may be taken individually, although discounts are only available for those pursuing the Certificate.

Are discounts available?

Yes. The following discounts are available: 10% off for 3-4 participants from the same company; 25% off for 5-10 participants from the same company; 10% off for federal or state employees; 10% off for active military; 10% off for Detroit Mercy alumni; 10% off for preferred vendors of Detroit Mercy. Discounts are also available for members of Automation Alley.

Is financial aid available?

No. Students may, however, seek loans from private lenders.

Can I earn CE credits?

Contact your licensing or professional governing body to inquire about earning CE credits.

PROFESSIONAL BENEFITS

“Corporations and individuals hold a vast number of assets in the form of intellectual property – patents, copyrights, and trademarks. The increase in filings of these intellectual property assets make it essential for professionals to develop their knowledge to understand the laws and safeguard their work.”
