Directed Research: Transnational Form

Directed Research: Transnational projects are original research papers that address a distinct legal topic or problem and contain a meaningful Canadian law component. The projects are completed by Dual JD program students with the supervision of a resident Detroit Mercy Law faculty member (or, where permitted, adjunct faculty), where the project is within the faculty member's area of expertise.

A transnational directed research project does not fulfill the upper-level writing requirement, however, it does satisfy a student's Dual JD Transnational Law Requirement, provided that the project includes a meaningful Canadian law component.

A student must have a cumulative grade point average of 2.50 or better to enroll in a transnational directed research.

Please complete this Form and return it signed by the faculty member(s) (and Associate Dean if required above) to the Law Registrar's Office by the end of the course add/drop period.
